JOINT MD, BRIGADE ENTERPRISES

give steady visibility in cash flows,” says Christy Joseph, Research Analyst at Geojit.

LOCAL DYNAMICS AT PLAY

There is a reason the company hasn’t ventured into big markets such as Mumbai and the Delhi National Capital Region (NCR).

Pavitra Shankar explains: “You need a whole ecosystem, from land acquisition to network building. So, we decided that three strong markets are a good foundation. Jumping to NCR, for instance, would be a major shift. Culturally, it’s a whole different world.”

Shankar adds: “You might think it’s just construction and land, but the local dynamics matter a lot. Our approach is always to start small—test the waters before going big. Like my dad always says, there’s no rush. Do it right the first time. Mistakes in real estate are costly.”

The company is still seeking a more balanced mix, “Ideally 50% Bengaluru, 25% Chennai, and 25% Hyderabad within this decade,” says Nirupa Shankar.

COMMERCIAL AND HOTELS

Brigade’s success in recent years has hinged on its ability to expand all its business verticals. The three important segments—residential, commercial (including retail) and hospitality (hotels and resorts)—have grown steadily. It recently re-entered the senior living space.

Since early 2023, the hospitality business—led by Nirupa Shankar—has turned into a business earning ₹150 crore quarterly from ₹110 crore earlier. Quarterly rental income from the commercial segment has surged by 65% to ₹350 crore by March 2025.

The younger Shankar is bullish about the emerging and fast-growing segments.

“One major trend in office spaces is the rise of managed offices and co-working. Before Covid, they made up just 5% of the market, now it’s 25–30%. We had a small co-working brand, BuzzWorks, which began around 2019. It started modestly, with 2,000–3,000 seats. Now we’re at 8,000 billable seats and aiming for 80,000 to 100,000 over the next five years,” says Nirupa Shankar.

Brigade runs nine hotels with about 1,600 keys, and Nirupa Shankar is looking to add at least 1,000 more. She has already identified sites for 1,000 keys in Bengaluru, Chennai and Kochi.

THE WAY TO GO

In Brigade’s core segment—residential space—prices have surged rapidly and so have per-unit sales. From average per square-foot sales of ₹6,822 in June 2023, the figure had nearly doubled by end-March 2025 to ₹12,083.

The jump carries with it the risk of warding off potential small-ticket buyers. That is likely a temporary hurdle, says Pavitra Shankar.

“Don’t worry about short-term fluctuations. They’ll always be there. Just be cautious with how you run your business—don’t overstretch on loans or take on more than you can handle. If you’re conservative, you’ll weather the storm. And when the next up-cycle comes, you’ll be ready for it,” she adds. BT
