

16% Growth in profits of listed insurers to ₹65,255 crore

134% Rise in Go Digit's net, driven by better return on assets insurance's profit slid 32.2% to ₹972 crore owing to weaker core underwriting performance.

The biggest of them all, LIC, reported a PAT of ₹48,320 crore, seven times GIC's and 20 times SBI Life's, backed by nationwide network, brand trust, government support and response to competition from the private sector in new products and categories. From conventional, savings-oriented policies, it has started focusing on non-participating products with long-term guaranteed returns, term insurance and unit-linked plans that offer higher margins.

"LIC's capital efficiency, when compared to private sector peers, presents a mixed picture. The company performs well in ratios like capital-to-total assets and capital-to-technical reserves, suggesting a strong reserve base to meet claims. However, private insurers have better solvency ratios and more liquid assets," says Vineet Agarwal, Head of Insurance, PL Capital, a financial services provider. "The reformed product strategy is being coupled with a positive intent to develop bancassurance and direct marketing channels, key to the growth of private insurers," says Agarwal.

Non-life (general insurance) and health insurance segments have underperformed life insurance in profitability. General insurance's performance is closely linked with the economy for segments such as motor, fire and marine. It also depends largely on one-year products, faces pricing pressure (unlike life insurance, which is a long-term product), and has to offer a lot of product options. These impact profitability. "This is particularly evident in motor insurance where intense competition and cap on third-party premiums put sustained pressure on margins," says Sandeep Dadia, CEO & Country Head at Lockton India, a privately held insurance brokerage firm. He says underwriting losses remain high, especially in health, where risk is often underpriced and claims costs are rising.

THE CHART TOPPERS

• LIC is way ahead of others due to nationwide network, brand trust • Life insurers dominate the list
