

The Wealth Architect: How Harsh Patel Built a Global Empire Advising Billionaires and Royalty

In the rarified world of ultra-high-net-worth advisory services, where discretion is currency and expertise commands premium, few names carry the gravitas of Harsh Patel. As Founder and Global CEO of Water & Shark, this dual-qualified Chartered Accountant and International Lawyer has quietly assembled one of the world's most exclusive client portfolios—a roster that reads like a who's who of global influence.

His client list spans continents: HH Sheikh Tahnoon bin Sayeed bin Tahnoon Al Nahyan, the BNW Group, Bollywood entrepreneur Vivek Anand Oberoi, retail giant Apparel Group, aviation disruptor SpiceJet, and an extensive network of centimillionaires and billionaires across the UAE, India, UK, Singapore, USA, and EU. Yet for Patel, these aren't merely transactional relationships—they represent decade-long partnerships built on technical mastery and strategic foresight.

What distinguishes Patel is his systematic approach to wealth strategy. His proprietary "5Ps framework" of Privacy, Protection, Prosperity, Preparation, and Preservation has become the gold standard for managing generational wealth. "In today's interconnected world, wealth doesn't recognize borders—but risks and opportunities do," Patel observes, articulating the philosophy that drives his integrated approach. "The world's most successful families don't just need compliance—they need visionaries who can navigate the intersection of law, finance, and geopolitics."

The timing of Patel's ascendance couldn't be more strategic. As geopolitical tensions reshape global wealth flows and tax policies evolve rapidly, ultra-wealthy families face unprecedented complexity in preserving and growing their assets. Traditional advisory models—fragmented across multiple specialists—increasingly fall short of addressing these interconnected challenges.

Patel's influence extends far beyond client work. His voice resonates in the world's most prestigious policy circles, having addressed the European Parliament, spoken at the House of Lords and British Parliament, and participated in leading global wealth summits. These platforms aren't just speaking opportunities—they're strategic positioning that allows Patel to shape conversations at the nexus of policy, law, and wealth strategy.

Perhaps most remarkably, Patel embodies a new archetype of Indian global leadership. Unlike previous generations who built success primarily within domestic markets, he represents professionals who are inherently international in outlook while remaining grounded in Indian values and discipline. His Mumbai origins aren't a backstory to

From Mumbai's bustling streets to the corridors of the British and European Parliaments, Harsh Patel has transformed himself into the go-to strategist for the world's most influential families—and redefined what it means to be a global legal visionary.

Harsh Patel

Founder and Global CEO of Water & Shark

overcome—they're foundational to his global perspective.

"My mission is clear: to empower influential families and enterprises to build extraordinary legacies that transcend borders," Patel explains, reflecting on his firm's expanding global footprint. As wealth continues its migration toward emerging markets and regulatory frameworks evolve globally, advisors like Patel occupy increasingly critical roles—not just as service providers, but as architects of economic influence, helping shape how the next generation of global wealth will be structured, protected, and deployed.

In an industry where success is measured in discretion rather than publicity, Patel's growing influence speaks to a fundamental shift: the future of wealth advisory belongs to those who can think globally while acting with precision.