

The concept dates to the 1950s when enterprising American teachers on opposite coasts swapped homes for holidays