WHEN VEDANTA EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR Arun Misra addressed shareholders during the company's March quarter earnings call last summer, his message was bold and optimistic. He said financial year 2024-25 (FY25) had the potential to be the "best-ever" year for Vedanta, promising record-breaking performance across volumes, revenue, costs, and profits.

Fast forward 12 months, and the Anil Agarwal-led mining giant delivered on that ambitious forecast. Vedanta and its subsidiary Hindustan Zinc ranked third among the fastest-growing major groups in the BT500 list of India's Most Profitable Companies, doubling profits and capping a standout year for the metals and mining conglomerate.

Vedanta posted its highest-ever aluminium and zinc volumes in FY25. Consolidated net profit jumped 172% year-on-year (YoY) to ₹20,535 crore, while revenue climbed 6.4% to an all-time high of ₹1.52 lakh crore. Operating profit rose 22% to ₹46,018 crore—the second-highest ever—with a margin of 30%, leading the sector. Its aluminium business achieved its highest-ever annual metal production of 2,422 kilotonne (kt), surpassing the volume guidance for FY25.
