

Jasna Bedi: Building Institutions for a Viksit Bharat

India's journey towards becoming a Viksit Bharat is being shaped by leaders who understand that true nation-building extends beyond economic growth. It requires strong institutions, world-class infrastructure, inclusive opportunities, responsible governance, and the confidence to compete on a global stage. Among the leaders contributing to this transformation is Jasna Bedi, Chairperson of the Family Office at BCD Global and Chief Marketing Officer of BCD Group, whose work sits at the intersection of infrastructure, enterprise, inclusion, and global expansion.

For more than seven decades, BCD has contributed to India's development story through the creation of landmark projects, critical infrastructure, and institutions that have supported the nation's growth. Today, as India accelerates towards becoming one of the world's leading economies, Jasna is helping shape the next chapter of that legacy - one defined by innovation, global ambition, and long-term value creation. Through strategic leadership and international expansion, she has played a significant role in positioning BCD as a modern enterprise capable of competing in an increasingly interconnected world while remaining firmly rooted in India.

At a time when infrastructure is central to India's economic aspirations, Jasna believes that development must be measured not only by what is built, but by the opportunities it creates. Her vision aligns closely with the principles of Viksit Bharat: sustainable growth, inclusive progress, and future-ready development. Under her leadership, BCD's evolution has extended beyond construction and real estate into a broader commitment to strengthening communities, supporting economic ecosystems, and contributing to responsible urbanisation.

One of the most defining examples of this philosophy is her commitment to women's empowerment. Recognising that India's rise cannot be achieved without greater participation of women in the workforce, Jasna championed the development of a dedicated accommodation campus for more than 9,000 women employed by a Fortune 500 manufacturing company. The initiative established new benchmarks for safety, dignity, and workforce mobility, demonstrating how infrastructure can become a catalyst for social and economic transformation. By enabling thousands of women to pursue professional opportunities with confidence, the project reflects the inclusive growth that lies at the heart of a developed India.

Beyond business, Jasna has consistently advocated for leadership that creates value beyond balance sheets. She believes that organisations have a responsibility not only to generate economic growth but also to create opportunities, support communities, encourage diversity, and contribute meaningfully to society. Through workforce initiatives, mentorship, and inclusive leadership practices, she has helped foster a culture where women increasingly occupy leadership and operational roles within industries traditionally dominated by men.

As Chairperson of the Family Office at BCD Global, Jasna also plays a critical role in governance, stewardship, and long-term strategic planning. Working under the leadership of her husband and Chairman, Angad Singh Bedi, she helps guide an organisation that combines Indian values with global ambition. Together, they are contributing to the evolution of a business built not only for growth, but for longevity, responsibility, and lasting impact.

As India advances towards becoming a global economic powerhouse, the role of business leaders extends beyond creating enterprises - it includes creating opportunity, strengthening institutions, and contributing to national progress. Through her work in infrastructure, governance, women's empowerment, and global business expansion, Jasna Bedi represents a generation of leaders helping shape a stronger, more inclusive, and globally respected India. Her contribution reflects the very spirit of Viksit Bharat - a nation built not only through economic achievement, but through purpose, responsibility, and enduring impact.

Jasna Bedi
CMO, BCD Group