

REIMAGINING THE PLAYBOOK

The maker of the Fortune brand of edible oils and Kohinoor rice expects 30% sales to come from food and fast-moving consumer goods businesses over the next two-three years

Prices are expected to remain firm this year as more vegetable oils are diverted to production of biodiesel. A potential drought could hit production of oilseeds in India

While 60-65% of India's edible oil market is now packaged or branded, 90% of staples in India are sold loose

Of India's roughly 24 million tonnes edible oil consumption, 15-16 million tonnes is imported, leaving companies highly exposed to global price swings
