

| 25

PHOTOS BY MILIND SHELTE

“Sebi’s role becomes relevant because these (climate) risks have clear and growing implications for investors and markets”

growing implications for investors and markets.

Our approach is anchored in disclosure. Financial markets work efficiently only when material information is available. Sustainability risks are increasingly material—so investors need to see them, understand them, and price them.

Sebi has mandated sustainability disclosures through the BRSR framework for the top 1,000 listed entities, by market capitalisation.