

THE EXPERT TAKE

Mangal Prabhat Lodha, Minister of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship

» Speaking at the BT Banking & Economy Summit and Best Banks Awards, the minister said that Maharashtra's financial stability remains intact, despite ongoing welfare expenditures. Lodha addressed concerns about the subsidy burden, particularly in relation to the Ladki Bahin Yojana. "This initiative will become the world's largest NGO. It is not a waste of money but an investment in 50% of the population that was previously denied their rights," he said during a conversation with BT Editor Siddharth Zarabi.

BANKING IN BHARAT AND BEYOND: THE NEXT CHAPTER

Dinesh Khara, former chairman SBI

» In his conversation with BT Editor Siddharth Zarabi, Khara shared his expertise and vision on the evolving landscape of banking in India. He said that empowering individuals and businesses at the grassroots level through innovative lending practices could transform fintech and the financial ecosystem. When it comes to the bank of the future, India would still see the relevance of physical banking. "Adoption of technology by all the customer segments and penetration of digital networks across will define how the banks will look. 'Phygital' is the future of banking," he said.
