

Rishi Agarwal: A Legacy of Excellence in Agro-Processing and Investment

Rishi Agarwal
Managing Director
Hemraj Group

The Indian Rice industry has been the cornerstone of India's agrarian economy because of the enterprises that have mastered the trade over generations. Rishi Agarwal, a third-generation entrepreneur is the head of one such business group 'Hemraj Group'. Rishi has sustained his family legacy in the agro-industry, he expanded its reach beyond borders, exporting rice and its products to 30+ countries. His business empire, Hemraj Group, contributes to approximately 25% of India's total de-oiled rice bran (DORB) exports. His ventures include six processing units across three locations in West Bengal and they have consistently earned accolades. Hemraj Group companies were awarded the highest and the second-highest exporters of DORB from India in the last two years. The company held the title of the highest exporter for 13 consecutive years.

A Vision for the Global Agro-Processing

Rishi has successfully sailed his enterprise towards diversification and international expansion in addition to rice they are now dealing in agro commodities like pulses, soya beans, raw cashew nuts, ginger, sesame, etc. Rishi has a sharp understanding of global market dynamics and using that knowledge he is moving forward with an ambition to make Hemraj Group a major player in the agro-processing industry worldwide.

Rishi led a joint venture in Vietnam, after recognizing the growing demand for rice bran oil. This venture focuses on the extraction and processing of rice bran oil and other agro commodities. The venture serves markets in Southeast Asia, Europe, and North America. By doing this, it reinforces India's role as the key supplier in the global agro-processing industry. Further expanding in Africa, Rishi has established two processing units in Nigeria to tackle the growing demand for staple grains and support local agricultural economies. Additionally, to broaden the portfolio further, Hemraj Group is launching soybean oil solvent extraction and refining plants in Nigeria and Vietnam. These ventures mark another milestone with a vision to create a diversified agro-processing empire. Rishi has simultaneously started trading commodities like wheat, pulses, raw cashew nuts, rice, and sesame seeds. He focused on Africa as he wanted to expand business operations and contribute to the continent's economic growth by facilitating local trade and development.

Strategic Growth and Future Expansion

Rishi has been working tirelessly to take Hemraj Group to the heights of success. He has set ambitious goals for his firm's growth and expansion. The company is projected to achieve a consolidated turnover of Rs. 3000 crore in FY 26 and Rs. 5000 crore in FY 28. As a part of the expansion strategy, Hemraj Group is planning to launch an Initial Public Offering (IPO) in the next three years. This will be a significant milestone in its success journey. Rishi is looking forward to expanding the company's footprints in various African and Southeast Asian countries by setting up processing units and trading different agro commodities, utilizing its established presence in these regions. After ruling the rice industry with its high-quality rice and rice bran oil, the company is now diversifying across agro commodities like pulses, soybeans, raw cashew nuts, ginger, sesame, and various other products. And soon their products will be available for customers.

Beyond Agro-Processing: Nurturing India's Startup Ecosystem

Rishi's primary business interest lies in agro-processing however his entrepreneurial spirit is far beyond the rice industry. He is always ready to make investments and as an investor, he keeps looking for opportunities in India's startup ecosystem. He invests in e-commerce, blockchain, AI, Space travel, commercial satellite launches, patented technologies, SaaS, cyber security, and innovative food and beverage products sectors.

Rishi has been investing in the future by supporting startups and motivating innovation across diverse industries. His ability to recognize and support disruptive ideas proves his forward-thinking approach to business and technology.
