INDIA IS IN A HURRY and so is IndiGo, chuckles Pieter Elbers, Chief Executive Officer of India's biggest airline, as he outlines the company's trajectory for 2030. The Netherlands-born Elbers, who will complete three years at IndiGo this August, points at some numbers—orders for 950 aircraft, 113 million customers ferried to 126 destinations in 2024—as he talks about the airline's growth story.

The winner of the Glocal CEO Award in BT-PwC's Best CEOs 2025 list, 54-year-old Elbers is clear that the next goal is to make IndiGo a global aviation giant in the next six years.

"I would say it is very much in hand with the growth
