I Witness

You just can't be careful enough on the road. While you can be a cautious driver, the actions of others on the road could lead to a mishap. It is at such times that dashcams prove invaluable, serving as unbiased eyewitnesses in the event of road accidents or incidents. Continuously recording the road ahead, dashcams provide a clear and accurate account of the driving environment. This one from Qubo features a 3.2-inch LCD display and captures footage in 3K resolution. The dashcam comes with built-in Wi-Fi connectivity that helps connect with the companion QuboPro App that makes it easy to check the recordings and take photos whenever you need to. Given that the device is designed to be used in India, which sees extreme temperatures, the dashcam can withstand harsh weather conditions—whether it is a hot summer or a freezing winter.

Guardian Angel

Exploring unknown roads can be exciting, provided you have a guardian angel—someone who could track your movements and watch your back. That's what this GPS tracker does. Connect to your car's ODB2 port, and on the companion app, you can track the vehicle's location in real time and driving behaviour. The device connects with the GSM network (which requires sim activation) and is available in subscription plans for one or three years. While it fetches real-time location, it also has onboard memory to store data in GSM dark areas.
