

PETROLHEAD Manan Shah (left) with his Lamborghini Urus, which he later sold to rapper Badshah; he has made many memorable journeys with the Mercedes G-Wagon from his fleet

SHAH'S TRYST WITH LUXURY CARS BEGAN WITH THE PURCHASE OF HIS FIRST SPORTS CAR, THE AUDI RS5

weren't as ubiquitous as they are now, they attracted a lot of attention—people were intrigued by the car's boxy shape and unique road presence. It's interesting to see how iconic the G-Wagon has become since.

"One particularly memorable incident relates to 2016, when Mumbai was inundated by heavy monsoon rains, and practically submerged in water; there were [also] warnings of power outages. We couldn't locate our torches and I relied solely on the G-Wagon's capabilities to navigate through the flooded streets," he says.

Shah's journey into the world of luxury cars began in 2000, when his father bought a Mercedes E-Class. However, his own personal tryst with super luxury cars started in 2011 with the purchase of his first sports car, the Audi RS5.

Ask him about his favourite car and pat comes the reply: "If I had to choose, I'd say that the Porsche Panamera holds a special place in my heart." Shah's fleet remains impeccably maintained, excelling in both mechanical prowess and aesthetic allure. His commitment extends beyond routine maintenance, encompassing meticulous attention to detail and investment in top-tier detailing and cosmetic enhancements. No wonder that he manages to safeguard the pristine condition of the cars in his collection.

In fact, most of the luxury cars that he sells from his personal collection are bought by Bollywood celebrities. For instance, rapper Badshah bought Shah's Lamborghini Urus, while producer Sajid Nadiadwala picked up his Rolls-Royce Cullinan, and producer Anand Pandit chose his Range Rover. "They trust my cars because of my attention to every detail. And each car has a unique 9800 number, so when one is for sale, they know it's from me."

It is obvious that not only is Shah passionate about his collection, but also very proud about the way he maintains it. And hearing him talk about the collection is sure to impress you, even if you aren't a petrolhead. BT

@nidhisingal