

Where Legal Expertise Meets Strategic Foresight and Empathy

As India sets its sights on becoming a $5 trillion economy, a key pillar of this aspiration is the strength of its legal ecosystem - resilient, efficient, and equitable. For this vision to be realized, the country needs legal leaders who can bridge economic ambition with institutional integrity. Manmeet Kaur, Partner at the renowned litigation firm Karanjawala & Co., stands firmly at this intersection, where rule of law meets the promise of Viksit Bharat.

To achieve the goal of Viksit Bharat, Government has brought economic and institutional changes such as introducing laws like Insolvency Bankruptcy Code and RERA along with vision to promote foreign investment by increasing investment limit.

With experience of almost two decades in high-value dispute resolution, Manmeet is recognized for her sharp legal mind, strategic clarity, and human-centric approach. A postgraduate in Intellectual Property Law, she has carved a niche in commercial litigation and arbitration, regularly representing industry titans in contentious matters spanning real estate, infrastructure, insolvency, construction arbitration, and high-stakes civil and corporate disputes including MSME.

From Hero MotoCorp and Adani to Raheja Developers, HT Media, Bhayana Builders, Shriram, Kama Ayurveda, IG Novasoft and Chambal Fertilizers, her client list reads like a who's who of Indian enterprise. She's known not just for winning cases, but for transforming legal challenges into structured solutions. Her presence in the courtroom and in the arbitration chamber is defined by a blend of precision, preparedness, and purpose.

But her influence extends far beyond legal wins. At a time when Prime Minister Narendra Modi calls for "each Indian to be a contributor to the $5 trillion dream," Manmeet is doing just that, by strengthening one of its most essential institutions: justice. As an Independent Arbitrator, she advances efficiency and trust in India's evolving commercial jurisprudence. As a Legal Advisor to the Breast Cancer Patient Benefit Foundation, she uses her legal expertise to serve causes rooted in empathy and empowerment.

A strong economy needs stronger institutions, justice must not only protect growth, but actively power it with integrity and inclusion.

A Director at the Federation of Indian Corporate Lawyers (FICL), Manmeet is also shaping India's corporate legal landscape, fostering dialogue and capability-building among in-house counsel. Her commitment to safe and equitable workplaces is visible in her longstanding role as a POSH Committee member across companies in the past and present like IndiaMart, Busy (an IndiaMart company), Raheja Developers, Encraft and Ajay Poly Pvt. Ltd.

Her accolades speak volumes. She has been featured in the Forbes India Legal Powerlist (2021 & 2023), recognized among India Business Law Journal's Future Legal Leaders, and awarded the Lex Falcon Award in Singapore (2022). BW Legal World named her the Best Real Estate Lawyer of the Year (2023–2024), while Benchmark Litigation Asia-Pacific 2025 and Asialaw have listed her as a Litigation Star and Rising Star in Dispute Resolution, respectively.

Yet, behind the awards is a deeper belief, that the rule of law is not just about compliance, but about capacity. As India builds its roads, ports, cities, and digital highways, legal infrastructure will be just as critical as physical infrastructure. "Justice delayed is development denied," she says, echoing the spirit of a government that seeks not just growth, but inclusive prosperity.

Manmeet's leadership aligns with the national call to "Come Together for Nation Building" a sentiment echoed in the Prime Minister's roadmap for Viksit Bharat. Whether by resolving disputes that unlock economic value, guiding businesses through legal complexity, or mentoring young lawyers, she's helping lay the institutional foundation for a future-ready India.
