

DViO: Fuelling Growth and Enterprise Transformation Globally

DViO is a multi-country, independent group leading the charge in Marketing & Technology, AI for Business, Marketing Intelligence, and Consumer Experience Innovation. At the heart of DViO lies a simple idea: growth—of businesses, of talent, of ideas.

My Journey

I began my entrepreneurial journey at 16—running a youth portal, hosting a TV show, writing for a national English daily, and even helping my uncle launch an engineering services company—all before I turned 20. Simultaneously, I completed my graduation in English Literature and Mass Communication & Media Research. These early years became the foundation for everything I would go on to build.

Marriage, the birth of my daughter, and starting DViO all happened in rapid succession. I was fortunate to grow up in a home where roles weren't bound by convention. My parents and in-laws lovingly shared the responsibility of raising my daughter, and my husband offered unwavering support as I poured myself into building DViO.

From Digital Marketing to Global Transformation

My ambidextrous interest in creativity, technology, and the emerging digital ecosystem propelled DViO on a distinct growth path. In the early years, we championed the shift from traditional advertising to digital platforms—well before it became mainstream.

The growth of smartphones and social media channels brought tailwinds, and we quickly rose to become one of the largest independent creative-tech-led marketing agencies.

But I wanted more than just to grow an agency—I envisioned a model where India could operate like a Global Capability Center (GCC) for marketing and technology, just as it had done for IT. This vision led us to expand DViO across six global markets, with two more on the horizon. Today, over 60% of DViO's revenue comes from international markets, while we continue to lead in India.

Sowmya Iyer
Founder & CEO, DViO Digital

Investing in the Future

Even as DViO scaled, my passion remained rooted in enabling business growth. Active within start-up circles, I began incubating and investing in companies that aligned with our core mission—particularly in Data, Analytics, AI, and Web Technologies. Over time, I worked with 18 such ventures in varying capacities.

These experiences culminated in the creation of DViO Leap—our AI transformation and implementation practice. Leap identifies and applies AI, automation, and machine learning across industries to unlock operational efficiencies.

And because AI begins with data, we launched DViO One—a proprietary data solutions and AI intelligence platform. DViO One unifies organisational data and applies intelligent reasoning to deliver real-time, actionable insights. It's a one-of-a-kind platform helping enterprises build true data intelligence and strategic agility.

Today, DViO has evolved into a global group at the intersection of Marketing, Technology, Data, and AI—offering enterprise transformation solutions across continents.

Building Talent for Tomorrow

We're also deeply invested in shaping the future workforce. Through DViO Academy, in collaboration with leading universities, we train students for careers in AI and new-age marketing. Many of them go on to join DViO or our clients, contributing to a skilled, future-ready talent ecosystem.

The Inner Journey

At the heart of everything I build is my spiritual journey. I've consciously blended ancient Indian wisdom into the way I lead and grow my business. One of our proprietary appraisal methods doesn't just measure performance—it measures happiness. We call it the "Evolution Metric," and it reflects our belief that personal well-being and professional excellence go hand in hand.

I believe every human being has boundless potential. At DViO, we operate with a new management ethos—one where every individual is empowered as an entrepreneur. It's a conscious departure from the traditional top-down model, and it has sparked tremendous creativity, ownership, and joy across the organisation.

What's Next

We are building toward the future with bold intent—expanding into new markets, deepening our technology and AI capabilities, and staying rooted in a people-first, purpose-driven approach. Our ambition is to lead a new generation of companies that merge innovation, inclusivity, and insight—powering the next wave of enterprise transformation from India to the world.

Our aspiration is to list DViO in the coming years, as a global company proudly born in India.