STATESCAN: KERALA EDUCATION

K.K. NAJEEB

Up in Arms Against a New Chapter
Kerala's six million Christians aren't known to be a homogeneous lot. But last week they put aside their differences to protest against what the community perceives as an onslaught from the Marxist-led Left Democratic Front Government on the state's education policy. They are opposed to a legislation which seeks to regulate admissions and fees in private institutions run by minority groups in the state, reports Special Correspondent M.G. Radhakrishnan.

WEB EXTRA: SHARIF'S INTERVIEW

"Musharraf is hoodwinking West"

Former Pakistani prime minister Nawaz Sharif, in an interview with Editor Prabhu Chawla said President Pervez Musharraf was giving the West an impression of being a friend but was doing exactly the opposite back home. On the Kargil War he said, "He let me and my government down. That's why I wanted a ceasefire."

WEB FEATURE: KOLKATA BANDS

Sound Sense

Kolkata seems to be experiencing a band-spurt with new western groups popping up, striking the right chords. The city is hopeful that soon enough their talent will be recognised the world over. They include Pink Noise, The Supersonics, Insomnia and Urban Reflektions, reports Senior Correspondent Swagata Sen.
