

Dr. A. K. Bansal
MBBS, MS, FAIS
Director

Despite long 20 odd years I maintain my cool with bulls eye faced stiff resistance in the competitive and professional world. My success lies in the fact that even Doctors from the USA and UK ask for my expertise with almighty's blessings, we will get success in achieving our aim.

VISION

To provide world class treatment to fellow Indians at affordable cost and bringing smile on the faces of childless couple.

YEAR OF ESTABLISHMENT

Jeevan Jyoti Group of Hospitals was established in 1988

CORE VALUES

"Honesty, Integrity and Transparency."

such treatments. The hospital is also a name to reckon with in the field of infertility management. A separate unit, Arnit Test Tube Baby Centre, equipped with the latest international facilities, has evolved as an important centre for infertility management with patients coming in from all over the country and even abroad for their treatment including Dubai, UK and South Africa. The success rate of the centre is comparable with few of the best centres in India and even abroad. The centre has played a significant role in bringing a smile on the faces of thousands of childless couples within a span of seven years.

From 1988 Jeevan Jyoti hospital has grown to be a well known 500 bedded multi-specialty hospital and infertility research centre in the eastern part of Uttar Pradesh. Like perennial students, the doctor couple did not miss any national or international seminar/ conference to keep themselves abreast of the latest happenings in the field of medicine and technology. Similarly, they have organised a good number of international and national seminars on various aspects of medical sciences.

The husband and wife duo has virtually changed the medical scenario of the region through their hard work and determination. Says Dr. A. K. Bansal, "I belonged to a middle class family and my parents wanted me to take up a lucrative job abroad after I completed my medical studies. But just another routine job failed to charm me. I always dreamt of setting up a hospital on the lines of Mayo Hospital of USA in Allahabad."

The trajectory of Dr. A. K. Bansal's life took a remarkable turn when he married his lady luck Dr. Vandana Bansal in 1984.

The couple is now an impressive team, where Dr. Vandana plays the role of a visionary and Dr. A. K. Bansal executes these plans and ideas. Dr. Vandana is passionate for innovations and experimenting with new ideas. On the other hand, her husband's foresightedness and hard work makes it possible to realise the goals and plans.

The doctor couple never let complacency set in their work nor did they harp on their laurels. They worked persistently to improve and upgrade their hospital and the result - a 500 bedded hospital with state-of-the-art facilities - is now there for all to utilise the high-tech medical facilities. The real success of the hospital lies in the fact that the couple does not leave any patient to their junior doctors. They are ready to be by the side of their patients at any hour of the day.

Speaking about the future plans, Dr. Bansal says, he wants to set up a chain of hospitals across the country. Besides, the proposal of a medical college and a university is in the offing. A lot of research is being done in the field of infertility management by Dr. Vandana and her team. It is because of her research work and sincerity that Dr. Vandana has received so many awards including Rashtriya Ratna Award. The hospital is known for its innovative ideas and latest techniques. Taking a step forward in the field of healthcare, Dr. Bansal and Dr. Vandana have set up the Well Woman Clinic, a health club for monitoring the health of women through the various stages of life. "Providing health services has always been a mission for us and never a profession," says Dr. A. K. Bansal. They also undertake several social issues which require time and attention. Doing their bit for the rural healthcare sector, they organise free camps from time to time. For this doctor couple, there is no stopping now in their crusade for providing better health care for the people and to bring smiles to the faces of childless couples.
