

With Increasing urbanization & more nuclear families, patients' as well as attendants' lives are becoming more difficult.

- Ruchi Pathak lives in Delhi with her husband Abhishek. Her in laws at Panchkula are a working couple. After delivering her baby through a cesarean section she found the initial days were very difficult. The baby was to be breast fed every hour but getting up without help put a lot of pressure on the stitches. Abhishek was disturbed because he was finding it difficult to get leaves. A Colleague suggested him to contact MEDIRENT services and he was surprised to know they had a solution called motorized recliner. Moreover, he did not buy it but got it on rent for a month.

- Due to his age and left side paralysis Mr. Kulshreshtha can't climb the stairs on his own. With each passing day his son Ram found it more & more difficult to get assistance from neighbours as most of them are working couples. After reading about it in a magazine, Ram has invested in "stairmatic", a wonder product which needs just one attendant to take an incapacitated person up or down the stairs.

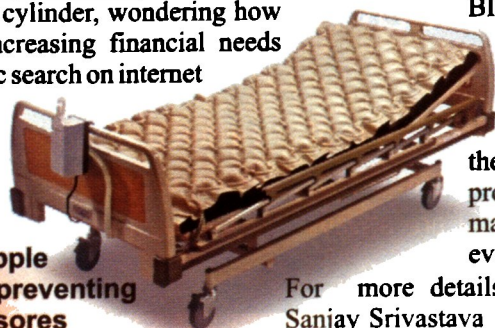

Jain now drives to his office with oxygen concentrator plugged into the lighter connection of his car. He attends the meetings while the concentrator operates on the standby battery. He was pleasantly surprised to learn that he could even fly with this wonder equipment as it is FAA approved.

Like these three families, Medirent has brought smile and satisfaction to many others also. With growing economy & urbanization, families are going nuclear, taking time off from work is becoming more and more difficult & taking care of the sick, disabled, old and infirm at home is becoming quite a challenge.

A technological leap in caregiving equipments is taking place but most of the these equipments are expensive. MEDIRENT, a division of NORMA D.N.D. Products Pvt. Ltd. has taken a path breaking step in launching the concept of rental services of medical equipments for home use first time in India. In addition to

- Mr. Anil Jain's high flying career came to a grinding halt when a medical condition forced him to take medical oxygen regularly. He was imprisoned at home with an ugly cylinder, wondering how will he take care of the ever increasing financial needs of his growing children. His frantic search on internet lead him to the solution. The portable oxygen concentrator provided by MEDIRENT has put his life back on track.

Invariably people avoid buying these equipments because they are expensive & often needed for few days. Getting them on rent is indeed a good idea.
