

Most vending machines are stocked full of junk food. With a bit of planning it is possible to replace those snacks with foods that will nourish your body. The challenge is to balance convenience with nutrition. Here is a pictorial guide to a selection of healthy snacks - and remember - healthy eating is not just about the number of calories.

Functional Fruit
All fruits are great - however many have a very short season (berries, peaches, nectarines) and others can be a bit too messy if you are at work (grapefruit, oranges, melon).
Some snacks may be low in calories, but lack in other essential nutrients. What's more - some snacks do nothing to satisfy the appetite. What's the point in saving 20 calories just to be gnawingly hungry 15 minutes later? No vending machine will be safe from you...
