

for effect, imported plants, expensive lights and contemporary wallpapers are now in vogue,” says Rachna Mehra.

Walls are an expression of the buyer’s psyche. Fashion icon Sabyasachi can bring the best of Indian art and style in wallpapers ranging from Jaipur Gemini to Sanganer tent, Gokul Pichwai or Shantiniketan. De Gourney brings the style of elegant European interiors as a backdrop to the opulence that permeates the homes of the rich and famous.

Good Earth Décor, similarly, has ranges of Charbag grandeur to Xanadu, Shangri La and a host of themes that can transport occupants around the world with a flick of the brush. For premium buyers like Aashna Khurana, the best wallpapers created dream themes in pink for her daughter’s rooms, all chic and lined with opulence. A maximalist at heart, Aashna loves stripes and clean lines, muted bases with pops of colour and art that ties everything together.

Thibault and DeGuerney wallpapers from the UK vie for space with India’s best - Good Earth and Sabyasachi to bring royal splendour to luxury walls. For the even more choosy, Rachna Mehra prints exclusive wall murals for one-of-a-kind interiors. Sustainability is a concern and India’s wealthy patrons opt for grass
