

1. PRADA
Prada Beauty store in India at Nexus Select Citywalk, Saket, Delhi.

2. ESTEE LAUDER X SABYASACHI
The collaboration brings luxury lipsticks that celebrate Indian heritage.

3. LOUIS VUITTON
Has officially entered the beauty race with a range of 55 lipsticks at $160; eyeshadow palettes at $250.

4. CHANTECAILLE
The luxury brand recently announced its long-awaited launch in India.

5. SHISEIDO
Unveiled a new chapter in its India journey with the launch of its Ultimune Power Infusing Serum.

A recent Reuters report indicates that luxury beauty makes up just 4% of the $21-billion beauty and personal care market in India, compared with 8% to 24% across top Southeast Asian countries and 25% to 48% in China and the US, which means there is plenty of room for growth.

With India's luxury beauty market set to quadruple by 2035, the question is no longer if global brands will succeed here, but how. Early movers like Prada, Chanel and La Mer are setting benchmarks, while the next wave will bring deeper cultural collaborations, locally relevant innovations, and digital-first strategies tailored to Indian consumers.

For many in the industry, the real test will be balancing India's love of heritage and tradition with its appetite for modernity and global aspirations. How effectively brands straddle the cultural duality may decide who emerges as the leader in India's luxury beauty market. BT

@sakshibatra18