

Ranthambore, Sofitel Legend Sukh Bagh Jaipur, and Raffles Goa. Hilton, with only two luxury properties to date (Conrad Pune and Conrad Bengaluru), will introduce Waldorf Astoria in Jaipur and Delhi, LXR in Bengaluru, Signia by Hilton in Jaipur and additional Conrads in Jaipur and Sohna, as part of a plan to manage 300 hotels in India within a decade, from around 66 now.

Hyatt is extending its Alila brand into secondary markets such as Igatpuri in Maharashtra, Kodagu (known earlier as Coorg) in Karnataka, and in Lansdowne, a hill station in Uttarakhand. All three will open next year.

Minor Hotels is targeting 50 new openings in India over the next decade, with a focus on premium and luxury segments, led by its Anantara, Avani and

▲ TAJ ALIBAUG

50 Taj properties that are in various stages of development will open over the next two to three years

NH Collection brands. Laurent Gardinier, President of Relais & Châteaux, a network of boutique luxury hotels, says India is a priority market and “holds immense strategic importance for Relais & Châteaux”. It is looking at expanding in the country.

Domestic groups are just as ambitious. The Leela has announced eight new hotels across Agra, Srinagar, Sikkim, Ayodhya, Bandhavgarh, Ranthambore, and two in Mumbai, taking the total to 21. ITC will expand the ITC Mementos brand (currently in Udaipur and Jaipur) to Siliguri and open a new hotel in Patna (the city’s first five-star). Oberoi, after a period of quiet, is rolling out new projects—The Oberoi Gir, The Oberoi Hyderabad, Trident Nandi Hills (near Bengaluru), and Trident Fort Aguada (in Goa). These are part of a pipeline of 25 properties scheduled for completion by 2030. Earlier