

the luxury segment, and the bulk is dominated by midscale, upper midscale and upscale developments,” as per Hotelivate, a hospitality consulting firm.

“The city already has a strong base,” says Akash Datta, managing director for South Asia at HVS ANAROCK. “What’s striking is that despite this depth, the pipeline remains robust.”

Zubin Saxena, Senior Vice President & Regional Head, South Asia, Hilton, agrees. “Rajasthan, particularly Jaipur, has long lured travellers for its rich history, vibrant culture, stunning architecture, and culinary experiences. Its domestic and global appeal makes it a natural fit for our brands like Waldorf Astoria, Signia by Hilton, and Conrad Hotels & Resorts.”

NE PREREQUISITE FOR luxury development is suitable infrastructure. With burgeoning footfalls—Rajasthan

52 | han reported 230 million domestic visits and 20,000,000 international arrivals in 2024—it’s important that infrastructure is conducive. Jaipur International Airport is undergoing a massive ₹600-crore upgrade, adding a new terminal and several more check-in counters. Road links from Delhi are improving, with the Delhi–Mumbai Expressway and the improved Delhi–Jaipur highway cutting travel time further.

Such connectivity smoothenes the seasonality of Jaipur’s tourism. Corporate travel from Delhi–NCR, MICE (meetings, incentives, conferences, and exhibitions) events, and exhibitions now plug demand gaps between wedding and holiday seasons. Post-pandemic, the city’s hotel market rebounded faster than most others with revenue per available room (RevPar) tripling between 2020–21 and 2022–23, according to Hotelivate.

Thai chain Anantara Hotels & Resorts, with more than 50 properties worldwide, chose Jaipur—not Goa, not Kerala—for its Indian debut, primarily because of its wedding potential. “Weddings have truly become a highlight of our journey since
