

From Canvas to Corporate Wellness: How Artist-Turned-Entrepreneur Niki Hingad is Revolutionizing Professional Self-Care

In a world where corporate burnout has reached epidemic proportions, one Mumbai-based visionary is painting a new picture of workplace wellness—literally.

When the pandemic forced the world to confront an unprecedented mental health crisis, Niki Hingad saw opportunity in the chaos. The internationally acclaimed artist and pranic healer transformed 17 years of expertise in energy work and essential oils into Thetapegaasi—a luxury aromatherapy brand redefining corporate wellness in India's fast-paced business landscape.

Her pioneering approach has earned her Excellence in Health & Wellness at the UN World MSME Day 2025, the Best Brand for Holistic Wellness Award, the MSME Excellence Award, and the TIME Innovation in Wellness Award. Forbes has also spotlighted Thetapegaasi among India's most visionary luxury wellness brands—recognition that reflects how Hingad has seamlessly merged ancient healing wisdom with modern business needs.

THE ART OF HEALING

Hingad's journey is anything but conventional. From acclaimed exhibitions in London and San Francisco to becoming a four-time national award winner in business excellence, her path combines creativity with consciousness.

Her artistic practice, rooted in metaphysical explorations like Shunya—the infinite potential of nothingness—laid the philosophical foundation for Thetapegaasi.

Niki Hingad

"Both my art and healing were always about taking the soul on a journey of self-discovery," Hingad explains. "Thetapegaasi extends that purpose into daily life."

CRYSTAL-POWERED INNOVATION

What distinguishes Thetapegaasi is not only its 100% natural, ethically sourced essential oils from around the globe—Bulgarian lavender, Australian tea tree—but also its exclusive crystal-healing infusion process. This pranic energy technique is designed to amplify the therapeutic benefits of every blend, creating a synergy between science, spirit, and sustainability.

The brand's Corporate Wellness Kit, starting at ₹2,490, includes targeted roll-ons such as Destress, Insomnia, and Focus, crafted specifically for workplace needs. The offerings have already found their way into boardrooms and luxury spaces, with early adopters including Reliance Freshpik, BMW, Taj Wellington Mews, and TataCliq Luxury.

RIDING THE WELLNESS WAVE

The pandemic accelerated corporate wellness adoption, as businesses sought tangible ways to improve employee wellbeing and productivity. Hingad's "ritual, not routine" philosophy resonated deeply, offering professionals more than a generic program—personalized, meaningful interventions.

Her recognition by the Ministry of MSME underscores Thetapegaasi's industry impact. In a time where stress-related ailments cost companies billions in lost productivity, Hingad's crystal-healed aromatherapy is proving to be both premium and practical.

SCALING CONSCIOUSNESS

For Hingad, the future of workplace wellness lies beyond one-size-fits-all solutions. Her vision is of energetically aligned, deeply personal wellness tools that transform not just individual stress levels, but organizational culture itself.

With Thetapegaasi, Hingad has built more than a successful luxury wellness brand—she has created a bridge between consciousness and commerce. Her journey demonstrates that purpose-driven entrepreneurship can be both transformative and profitable.

