ropolitan Region (MMR) in the country, is throwing up figures that are unprecedented. Take the Noida market, for instance. Plagued by stagnant projects and dishonest developers, it now attracts HNIs, eager to buy properties worth more than ₹30 crore. To capitalise on the increasing demand, Noida-based real estate major Gaur Group launched its Mulberry Mansions project, offering independent homes with five bedrooms, priced between ₹30 crore and ₹40 crore, located over 30 km away from Delhi's city centre in Sector-1 of Greater Noida West. Manoj Gaur, CMD, Gaur Group, and Chairman, CREDAI National, says the luxury real estate market in India is undergoing a transformation and experiencing robust growth. "With the country's economy on a solid foundation, [we expect] this trajectory to gain further momentum. Moreover, an increasing number of HNIs and UHNIs are seeking homes that reflect their status, which will continue to fuel the segment's expansion," he adds.

Gulshan Dynasty, another high-end real estate project located in Sector 144, off the Noida Expressway, features a luxury apartment complex comprising three towers, each 34 floors high. The price tag for its 198 residential units, including six duplexes, exceeds ₹8.5 crore. Expected to be completed by next year, the 5.8-acre project has a starting rate of ₹30,500 per sq. ft. This is an area where the average rates of premium homes range between ₹10,000 and ₹15,000 per sq. ft. Industry experts indicate that multiple factors are driving demand for luxury homes. One significant development that has turned the Noida market around is consolidation, says Amit Modi, Director at Noida-based realtor County Group. Additionally, several key infrastructure developments, including the ongoing construction of the Noida airport, the creation of dedicated industrial sectors, the development of data centre land banks, and the expansion of road, rail, and metro networks, among others, are responsible for this change, he says.

Moreover, there is also a shift toward larger spaces and iconic projects by esteemed developers, providing world-class amenities and enriching lifestyles, Gaur notes. Industry experts, including Vikas Wadhawan, Chief Financial Officer of REA India (Housing.com/PropTiger.com Group), point toward the rising aspirations of Delhi residents as a factor contributing to the surge in luxury home sales in the Gurugram and Noida markets, in addition to the aforementioned factors. "Apart from HNIs, many Delhi residents with homes in the capital are moving to luxury apartments in Gurugram in search of quality life and world-class amenities," he says.
