

CONSUMERS' ELECTRIC CHOICE

▶ Consumers are showing a growing affinity towards luxury electric cars because they present a more sustainable transport option

▶ Taking a cue from these trends, automakers are introducing more EVs in their luxury portfolio

▶ It's not just environmental consciousness that is propelling the rise of luxury EVs; they also deliver superior performance, with instant torque

▶ Features like autonomous driving and cutting-edge infotainment systems appeal to tech-savvy customers who spend longer times in commute

▶ First-time buyers are leading the EV transition in the luxury segment, especially millennials