

With an increasing number of celebs wearing their creations on red carpets across the world, Indian jewellery designers are basking in the global limelight

BY SMITA TRIPATHI

SHINING MOMENT

Cardi B turned heads at the Met Gala with her jewellery designed by Mumbai-based jewellers Kamyen

| 75

WHEN JENNIFER LOPEZ turned up for the Golden Globes party at the Toronto Film Festival in early September, she had a special India connection. The actor-singer complemented her dress with jewellery from the Sabyasachi High Jewellery collection. She wore bold earrings crafted in 18k gold with morganites, tourmalines, and diamonds. Earlier, at the 77th Cannes Film Festival, Hollywood legend Meryl Streep made a striking appearance on the opulent Grand Theatre Lumière's Red Carpet, where she was bestowed with the Honorary Palme d'Or. Indian designer Hanut Singh created the stunning earrings she wore at the event.

At the Met Gala, fashion's biggest event, pop icon Cardi B turned heads not only for her voluminous dress, but also for her jewellery

the World