

Building on a Legacy

WHEN ZAHABIYA KHORAKIWALA stepped into her role as Managing Director of Wockhardt Hospitals over a decade ago, she confronted formidable challenges that have since turned into achievements. Since 2010, she was tasked with establishing the chain's leadership in Tier II cities while also expanding its presence in metropolitan areas.

"When I assumed the role, Wockhardt had divested its greenfield hospitals to the Fortis group, and we needed to strengthen our leadership in Tier II cities and build our presence in metro cities from the ground up," she says.

To do that, Khorakiwala focussed on bringing specialised healthcare to regions where corporate hospitals had not yet ventured. "We attracted experienced clinical talent and partnered with Partners Harvard Medical International, enhancing our nursing and clinical leadership," she notes. That helped it become a key healthcare provider in these regions.

In metros, she spearheaded the launch of the New Age Wockhardt Hospital and Wockhardt Super Specialty Hospital in Mumbai. "Our metro hospitals have become recognised for medical expertise, and the innovations introduced here have benefitted our Tier II hospitals as well," she says. Business growth has been strong under her leadership. In FY24, Wockhardt Hospitals' revenues rose 20% year-on-year (YoY) to ₹630 crore, while Ebitda rose 50% YoY. The company expects revenues to grow to ₹750 crore in FY25.

Additionally, Khorakiwala has extended her efforts into education with the establishment of Wockhardt Global School, a K-12 school in Aurangabad. She is truly one to watch out for. BT
