

REINVENTION DRIVER

COLGATE-PALMOLIVE (INDIA)'S growth story has been steered by constant innovation and it is a topic that interests the company's boss, Prabha Narasimhan. Her leadership has been instrumental in driving the sales of the personal care company. Narasimhan cites the case of Colgate MaxFresh toothpaste, saying, "The focus was on greater freshness."

ADVICE TO YOUR YOUNGER SELF

Have faith in yourself. Build, reach out to support network

MANTRA TO OVERCOME CHALLENGES

What is tough now, will seem better tomorrow

Narasimhan, who joined the oral care major a little over two years ago from Hindustan Unilever, believes the superiority of a product is most critical in oral care and a lot of that is driven by successful innovation. The other high points during her time in Colgate are marked by the relaunch of Colgate Super Junior range of toothbrushes and Colgate Strong Teeth toothpaste with a refreshed formula. The IIM Bangalore alumna has her eyes on relaunched, visible through the time spent on the reinvention of Palmolive. "If you look at the (body wash) business, the penetration is less than 3% but the growth is as high as 25%," she says. Narasimhan's experience and vision for success are what drive her success. Her task will be to keep the consumer base growing, along with a focus on new products. BT

— BY KRISHNA GOPALAN

PRABHA NARASIMHAN

52, MD & CEO, Colgate-Palmolive (India)

PHOTO BY MANDAR DEODHAR

MARCHING AHEAD

"THE BIGGEST RISK is becoming complacent," says Radhika Gupta of Edelweiss AMC. Since she joined the company in 2017, Edelweiss Mutual Fund's assets under management (AUM) have seen remarkable growth—from ₹6,500 crore in March 2017 to over ₹1.40 lakh crore by July 2024.

the fastest-growing AMCs in FY23-24, with a growth rate of over 23% in AUM, securing the 13th spot in industry rankings. The company has transitioned from an unprofitable entity to a financially healthy one, reporting a positive profit after tax in the last few years.

Gupta's time at

ADVICE TO YOUR YOUNGER SELF

Trust your instincts and charge forward with confidence

MANTRA TO NAVIGATE CHALLENGES

Don't be afraid to be vulnerable and reach out

"I want to maintain our agility, spirit, and the pace that has brought us this far," Gupta says on the company's future.

Edelweiss Asset Management Company has emerged as one of Edelweiss has also been marked by innovative product launches.

Looking ahead, Gupta sees tremendous growth opportunities in smaller markets. "We serve more than 18,000 pin codes

STEADY AND STRONG

ROSHNI NADAR MALHOTRA has not only steered HCLTech through turbulent times in the past year but has also managed to emerge stronger. Amid steadily spreading geopolitical tensions and a volatile business environ-

ROSHNI NADAR MALHOTRA

43, Chairperson, HCLTech

PHOTO BY BANDEEP SINGH