

GAINING MOMENTUM

- ▶ Gross sales continue to stay above ₹5,000 crore for the third straight year
- ▶ The top line of Fortis Healthcare grew at a CAGR of nearly 7% from FY18 to FY23

NOTE DATA IS ON A CONSOLIDATED BASIS SOURCE ACE EQUITY

HEALTH CHECK

- ▶ PAT margin increased to 10.05% in FY23 from -20.49% in FY18
- ▶ In FY23, Fortis gave dividend for the first time ever

“India is a critical part of [IHH’s] global strategy, and we are dedicated to elevating healthcare standards, improving patient care, and increasing accessibility to world-class medical services across the country”

PREM NAIR
GROUP CEO, IHH HEALTHCARE

by selling Ranbaxy to Sun Pharma in 2014. But Daiichi now wanted to recover costs from the Singh brothers, so it sued them in court and won. The Singhs did not pay up. In early 2018, the brothers lost control over the management of Fortis, and eventually its ownership after banks and financial institutions sold shares pledged to them by the Singhs for loans. In November 2018, after a year of negotiations, IHH Healthcare came aboard with a 31% stake, having bagged Fortis for around ₹4,000 crore via an allotment of preferential shares.

Daiichi, still suffering from the side effects of the Ranbaxy pill, saw its chance and accused the brothers of diverting funds. Sebi stepped in following media reports of the diversion of funds and directed Fortis to take steps under law to recover amounts to the tune of several hundred crores from the Singhs and their related entities, while directing the brothers to stay away from the hospital chain. Now, the Supreme Court stayed the IHH open offer in response to the Daiichi challenge and sought a response from Fortis on Daiichi Sankyo’s plea to restrain Fortis from transferring ₹4,000 crore to RHT Health Trust. Daiichi aimed to recover the ₹2,500 crore arbitration award won in a Singapore tribunal against