SURGING AHEAD IN SURGUJA: THE ADANI FOUNDATION IS EMPOWERING WOMEN TO BRING SOCIO-ECONOMIC CHANGE

By building institutions of people and focusing on sustainability, the Foundation is striving to contribute to the dignity, well-being and wealth of communities

Anaso Porte, a woman hailing from Salhi village in Surguja district of Chhattisgarh, is like any other tribal woman belonging to the Gond tribe. She is resilient, determined, and strong. Yet what sets her apart from the rest is her unwavering faith in herself that inspired her to take charge of her life and family.

Having to leave her educational aspirations due to domestic responsibilities and societal constraints, she worked with a local self-help group (SHG). Although she was making a humble contribution to the household income, she was still hugely dependent on her husband for support. Anaso's life took a transformative turn when she became part of Mahila Udyami Bahudeshiya Sahkari Samiti (MUBSS) — a rural co-operative whose members include 250 tribal women from 7 villages.
