 The stars of Netflix's Fabulous Lives vs Bollywood Wives discussed several topics—from handling finances to investments and their personal journeys

 Kothari shared her insights about her transition from being an actor to a businesswoman. "In the '80s and '90s, things were very different in films. There were hardly any women on sets. Today, the industry is full of women"

 Seema Sajdeh, while shedding some light on how to handle finances, said, "Women are the first CEOs of their homes... Women are way better at saving money and investing their finances in the right places than men"

 Art collector Shalini Passi, while talking about pursuing her passion, pointed out that she never thought about becoming the 'it' girl after the show

 Pandey shared how she has taught her children about the importance of investing right and discipline. "We earn money and want to save it to give our children a better life. I learnt it [the value of money] from my mother and instilled it in Ananya and Rysa"
