

In Pursuit of Good Health

The past year has been eventful for the Indian pharma sector, with some companies witnessing growth, and some challenges. The outlook for the sector, however, remains positive

BY NEETU CHANDRA SHARMA

INDIA'S PHARMACEUTICAL BUSINESS was a cocktail of ingredients that ranged from success in foreign markets to leadership in a field, from filling supply-chain gaps to making APIs for new drugs. Some companies saw their market capitalisation grow, while some slipped in the BT500 rankings despite doing the right things. Others faced challenges in innovation, regulatory hurdles (read: the US Food & Drug Administration), and market positioning.

CAPITALISING ON GLOBAL TRENDS

Sun Pharmaceutical Industries saw its market capitalisation rise by 45% to ₹3.5 lakh crore, moving up four places in the BT500 ranking, with shareholders seeming to give a thumbs up to its strategies. The company showed steady growth in FY24, with gross sales rising by 10% to ₹47,759 crore. Its formulation sales grew by 9.5% in the domestic market to ₹14,889 crore. The keys to its growth: new products and strategic marketing.

Sun's formulation sales in the US increased by 13% to ₹15,349 crore. Global speciality sales grew by 19% to ₹8,738 crore, accounting for 18% of total FY24 sales. In emerging markets, it reported formulation